the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Foundation 1999). The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the general population, and the incidence of mental health problems has increased in the prison population.

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the mental health needs of prisoners. On September 30, both the Edison Eagles and Senior Cindy Menefee emerged as Homecoming winners. Cindy was crowned as queen of a court which included Angie Harter, Lisa Turner, Sunni Rossi, and Julie Via. As has been the procedure in past years, the senior class was responsible for selecting the candidates for the court, while the high school student body voted on the winner.

HOMECOMING: Our winning year

Friday, September 30th was a memorable night in Edison varsity football. With the superb game plan of head coach Bill Dorulla, and assistant coaches Jeff Kincaid and Doug Stanford, the Eagles pulled off their first homecoming victory in eight years when they defeated the North Newton Spartans by a score of 28 to 0.

Ron Lewis set the pace for the Eagles early in the first quarter. He scored the first points of the game with a sixteen yard run and a successful touchdown. Not to be left out, John Masson caught an eighteen yard touchdown pass from quarterback Larry Chambers, giving the Eagles a 12 to 0 lead over their homecoming rivals. With the help of junior Raul Santos and his successful 4 yard touchdown run, the Eagles left the field at half-time with a solid lead of 18 to 0 over the Spartans.

The Eagles came out just as strong in the second half. Raul Santos brought the Eagles out of half time with a 15-yard touchdown run. Freshman Alex Costa did his part for the Eagles with an extra point kick and a field goal late in the fourth quarter, giving the Eagles their final score of 28 to 0 over the Spartans. Finally, a homecoming to remember for seniors, and a taste of victory for future Edison varsity football players.

ALMOST ANYTHING GOES & SPIRIT WEEK

This years spirit week competition was very interesting and amusing. Many students participated and the whole week went rather well. Seniors placed first, Freshmen second, Sophomores third, and last but not least the Juniors. The spirit week days were: Monday- nerd day, Tuesday- T.V. character day, Wednesday- 50's day, Thursday- Toga day and, Friday- Red and Black day.

The Band sits together in formation before the March Concert.

The Flag Corps performed for us during half-time at football and basketball games.

Choir at Edison has improved greatly over the past few years. They seem to have more fun on stage hamming it up in front of their friends and families then before.

The Show Choir has 24 members and performed at Union Station over Christmas break. They are invited to return in March. This year they will be doing something new. They are to compete in St. Lewis over Spring break, which is a national competition.

The girls ensemble and concert choir performed at the Southlake Mall for Christmas. The girls ensemble will be singing at the Honor Society Inductions. There are 43 members of the Girls Ensemble and 42 members in the Concert Choir.

Mrs. Reynolds plays the piano as well as being the choreographer for all the choirs performances and all the musicals here at Edison.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Smoking was a major issue brought up at Edison High School this year. Edison's student council and honor society, in association with the American Cancer Society, participated in this year's Great American Smokeout which took place on Thursday, November 17. Organized by student council sponsor Mr. Chuck Krieger and president Mike Halkitis, this one day ban of smoking within the school building proved to be quite successful. Posters and signs protesting cigarettes were put up throughout the building. T-shirts which had been designed by French teacher Micheal Dobrich had been printed and passed out prior to the smokeout.

Not everyone approved of this protest, however. Students tore down and defaced the posters, and many of the t-shirts were worn in sarcasm. There was much tension between teachers on this matter also. Many thought of it as an infringement of their rights.

The goal of the student council and honor society was to ban smoking from all Lake Station schools for good. They had not fully accomplished their goal but they did manage to get designated smoking areas for teachers. This issue has not yet been resolved. But, if the smoke does seem to clear the air then that's for the better. But if not next year you may see teachers ducking into the bathrooms for a quick smoke.

The Honor Society is sponsored by Mr. Jerry Wilson. To be in the Honor Society you must have a B average or higher and good citizenship. The faculty judges the nominees for the Honor Society. Some of the nominees do not make Honor Society because of their citizenship or other qualities.

To be in Honor Society is a great achievement as well as a great attribution. There are 14 inductees this year. They are eligible for Honor Society in the middle of their Sophomore year up until they graduate.

The Honor Society is an excellent organization and something to be proud to be a part of.

Distributive Education Clubs of America, better known as DECA, is a class that is open to Juniors and Seniors. For a Senior to participate in DECA each must have a part-time job and had participated in DECA the previous year.

Juniors however, are a different story. These students learn the basics of marketing and prepare for their Senior DECA year. For instance, they compete in District Competition and perhaps go on to state if qualified. From state the lucky few go on to the National Competition. This year the National Competition was held in Orlando, Florida. Mike Halkitis and Melissa (soup) Campbell qualified for their written manuals and Eric Brett for his diligent studies of general marketing.

Kelly and Tina discuss a story.

"It takes all kinds of people to make the world go round." As the saying goes, and the Eagle Feathers newspaper staff is a perfect example of this. With a unique combination of personalities the stories are deffinately interesting.

First there is the Editor Duke Howell a straight 'A' student and class Validictorian. Next is Asst. Editor Kelly Thorne Duke's girlfriend and an all around happy-go lucky girl. Then there's Vicky Saffrahn known for her high heeled boots and loud oppinions. On features and visuals is Shawn Hoekstra an excessive dreamer. Of course there's Robert McCafferty on sports, an all around athlete with a wicked personality. Last but deffinately not least there's the Reporters. Scott Tolliver a rebellious skinhead, Mina Osakabe a foriegn exchange student from Japan, and Lisa Vargas a fun-loving goof-off.

With all these personalities the paper works out great. It seems to have a corner on every angle. That is exactly what is needed to write stories, make deadlines, and do layouts.

Newspaper takes alot of time, work, and energy to produce and the Eagle Feathers staff have shown they have exactly what it takes.

Debbie, Candy, Erika, and Lisa work hard on meeting the deadline.

The yearbook got off to a bad start this year. Last year, the whole staff except Maria were new, and had to get used to the new teacher, Miss West. With her death this past summer, we found ourselves in the same position. Getting used to a new teacher.

We finally broke out of our rut during the second semester, and flew into gear. Here's what some of the staff had to say: Tom: Working on the staff this year was different, but I would not trade it for the world.

Vicky: OUR FAMILY IS BACK!!

Erika: Well, It's been a real . . . experience!

Keith: It was the most relaxing class I had. (except around deadlines.)

Principal to take some time off

Korpak is retiring after 30 years at Lake Station

By Steve T. Collins
Correspondent

Helen Korpak, principal of Edison Junior-Senior High School, is looking forward to traveling and spending more time with her grandchildren.

After 30 years with Lake Station Community Schools, she has earned some time off.

The principal, who will retire at the end of this school year, has spent all but two years of her career at Lake Station.

For two years, she taught in Gary, then, in 1959, she began teaching health and physical education to eighth- and ninth-graders in Lake Station.

She also has taught English and civics at Lake Station, and eventually became the assistant principal of the junior high school.

A year later, she was the principal there, a position she held for 10 years before becoming principal of both the junior and senior high schools.

"I look back on the 32 years in education with a lot of very fond memories," Korpak said, and added, "I've really enjoyed my years in Lake Station. That's evident by the time I've put in here. People are friendly, receptive, cooperative with the schools. It's been a real pleasure."

The principal grew up in a home in which the value of education was continually stressed. Both her father, Jesse Burge, and her grandfather, Virgil Burge, made sure all the youngsters concentrated on their studies and attended college.

"My dad insisted. We didn't have any choice," she said.

One big change she feels has occurred over the years is that people used to value an education more than they do now. The students haven't changed a great deal, she said, adding, "I've enjoyed working with them."

Her husband, Frank, already is retired from his job in the maintenance department with the School City of Hobart.

GOV'T DAY

To celebrate Law Week, the Edison High School Seniors took part in Government Day. The purpose of this day was to let the selected Seniors learn how the government functions. These Seniors needed a petition signed by students to get elected for an office. After being nominated, the Seniors voted during their government class. Government Day has been a tradition at Edison High School for approximately ten years.

This year's Government Day was held on Thursday, April 6, 1989. The selected students left school at 8:30 am to talk with city officials. While there they received a tour of Lake Station's City Hall and Maintenance Department. After this, the students had a luncheon with the administration. Later that day they held a council meeting. In this meeting they passed an ordinance or resolution. Thus ending the Government Days activities.

The participating students were as follows:

Principal-Josue Santiago

Asst. Principal-Jamie Taylor

Supt. of Schools-Mike Halkitis

Asst. Supt. of Schools-Audreta Dillard

Mayor-Joe Stone

Clerk Treasurer-Kim Williams

City Attorney-Julie Via

Council Attorney-Leslie Hein

Continued

Among the sceptics was Don Koontz, Clark's shop teacher. "We didn't think he would get it done," Koontz says. "It was just an enormous job."

Besides the sheer amount of work involved, Clark was slowed down by a severe injury. He was sharpening a pocket knife last fall when the knife slipped. Instinctively, he tried to catch it between his legs. The blade punctured one leg, cutting what Clark describes as "a hole the size of a dime" in a vein.

He says he almost died. And while recovering, he missed several weeks of school.

When he came back, he started work on the canoe again, pressing ahead slowly. Finishing the project by year's end seemed impossible, but then some of Clark's friends got involved.

"He got a lot of help from the other fellas," Koontz says. "The last month, a bunch of them got involved with it. When Jimmy was working by himself, (putting in a cedar) strip or two a day would be a real good day. But the bunch of them could do six or seven strips a day. That got Jimmy going again."

Koontz calls the project "the biggest, most unique I've ever seen."

The fellows who helped include Jason Hisick, John Williamson, Stanley Weliczko, Troy Flick, Dan Alexander.

You might say they know what it takes to keep a dream afloat.

UNDERCLASSMEN

Because I had failing grades in history,
Because my father threatened loss of limb
and other minor inconveniences, Because my teacher thought I had the intelligence of an advanced flea,
I stayed in my room and in the library
And worked on this fantastic paper on
The Great Depression and the New Deal.
I felt in sympathy with Roosevelt
As he tried to put the country back together,
As I was trying to put my life back together.
When I turned in the paper, I felt proud of myself.
When I got it back, I felt crushed.
My history teacher had written,
"I don't think you did this by yourself.
It's too good."
The Depression isn't historical, it's personal.

FIRST

Most students in high school have had many dates but how was the first date? I mean, your first date, when it's just you and the person that you've been eyeing since school started. I bet most of us were scared or at least a bit nervous. We were probably all worried about what to wear, what to say, and how to act.

The big moment came. Either you got in the car to pick up your date, or you waited anxiously for your date to arrive! What were those last thoughts as you drove off together?

Then you turn the corner and there it was the movie theater. At least you figure since not much was said on the way there, you'll have something to talk about on the way home. Most likely you went to a fast food place after the movie. However, some of us went home.

Finally arriving home, you sit there wondering, should you kiss or not? After a long silence, you give a quick kiss and say good night. Then you get on the phone and tell your best friend about the evenings activities. You and your friend both agree things are a lot easier with friends than one on one, but I'm sure all of us are glad we've been through that already.

BEST FRIENDS

Everyone needs at least one good,
close freind;
One who means a lot, and who can share secrets and feelings that might otherwise be locked up and afraid to come out.

Everyone needs someone who cares
and doesn't hide it;
someone to ease the down moods
and share the ups.

SHYNESS

Shyness is not a very common thing here at Edison, but where it is found, it's found in multitudes. Shy people seem to hang out together. They sit together at lunch, and if they're really shy, they don't hang out with anyone at all. Even though shy people don't talk much, they each have distinct and unique personalities.

And another thing, all shy people are not boring. As a matter of fact, if you can get a shy person talking about a subject they like sometimes it's hard to shut them up!

Some of the most interesting people in this school are shy, but that doesn't always stop them from being involved with school activities, and that is good because our school wouldn't be quite so good without them.

Bells ring, lockers slam
 Fleeting faces familiar (more or less);
 Inward fear hidden by outward display of Outamawaymoron and expletives deleted

Bonds formed, battlelines drawn
 Some cling to temporal securities
 Or to sacred uncertainties
 Both feeding our characters and our reflections

Looking forward, glancing back
 Through all the books, reports, lectures, and exams
 We learn that change is the most important
 When all along we thought we loved consistency

K M A R T

I was in such a hurry to get out of school
That I took a shortcut.

I dropped out.

Now I work full-time at the local K Mart

Putting out stock,

Handling the register,

Dealing with the crazy customers

Who hassle me about returns,

Who cut the line,

Who think I cheat them by ringing up
the wrong prices.

Taking stock of what I've done

I see that the shelves of my life are kinda empty,
Bare, in fact.

When will it register that

There are no express lines to happiness?

I am such a fool.

Check it out.

FUTURE PLANS

My parents' plans for me include
College,
Medical school,
Internship,
Residency,
Private practice.

Those plans do not include Jennie,
Jennie, who makes me think of
Walks along the shore,
Quick kisses in the movies,
Frisbee-tossing in the park.

"You'll meet the right type of girl,"
my mother says,

Not making the least attempt to be subtle.
"Somebody with a similar background,"

my father says,
Not making the least attempt to be understanding.
The thought of Chinese-Jewish grandchildren
Terrifies them.

If I am going to be a doctor
And hold life and death in my hands,
Why can't I take charge of my own life
And hold the hand
Of the girl I love?

LIFE IN SCHOOL!

Please, sir, I don't mean to be disrespectful.
I did raise my hand.
I mean, who cares if Macbeth becomes a monster,
If Huck Finn rescues Jim,
If Willie Loman never finds happiness?
They're just characters in books.
What have they got to do with me?
I mean, I'm never going hunting for white whales.
I'm never going to fight in the Civil War.
And I certainly don't live in the Dust Bowl.
Tell me instead how to Make money, pick up girls.
Then maybe I'll listen.
You got any books that deal with real life?

COLLEGE

Oh, God, one more year and you start at the bottom again. It's kind of frustrating knowing that after you graduate you'll be faced with the real world and college.

Preparing for college is tedious but rewarding. Taking the S.A.T. and A.C.T., filling out applications for college and college scholarships, but most importantly deciding what you want to do for the rest of your life.

College is a lot different than high school. For one you are paying for the education; therefore, you're there to learn not to mess around. College also gives you a chance to meet new people and make new friends. It also gives you a sense of responsibility. Here you have to get a job, get a car for transportation, and save money for an apartment, and tuition.

So Juniors and upcoming Juniors if you haven't gotten to work on this you better start soon for time flies faster than you think!

It's hard to explain how I feel.
 Some days are up, some down.
 Most are just boring, though.
 I'm waiting for something to happen,
 Like standing at a station, looking for a train.
 Every Friday, Harvey and me go bowling.
 We're both lousy, but it passes the time.
 Afterward, we go for pizza
 And talk about how the action'll
 pick up next week,
 How we'll get a couple of dates
 And really have a good time.
 Every week Harvey and me go bowling,
 Together and alone.

TALK TO ME

I sit a distance away from you.

Not talking to you makes me blue.

I wish I knew why I get tongue tied around you.

I want to cry everytime I try and fail.

Could it be, maybe, you don't want to talk to me?

Or could it be, maybe, you're shy
just like me?

I'd like to get over this shyness.

But instead I am nothing but a cowardess.

MINA

17-year-old Mina Osakabe from Hamamatsu, Japan, was Edison's exchange student for the 1988-89 school year. As Mina's long-term goal is to teach English, she learned a great deal during her stay. She has one more year of high school to complete in Japan before returning to the States to continue her education at the University of Michigan.

Mina quickly and happily adapted to American culture as well as the social scene at Edison. She enjoyed pizza, junk food, the Hard Rock Cafe, George Michael, and American holidays and customs. She will be remembered by most of her many friends, however, for her prowess on the tennis court.

Currently ranked 29th in Japan's Junior Tennis League, Mina advanced to the Indiana state finals tennis tournament, after an amazing undefeated singles season for Edison. She ended her season placing 4th in the state of Indiana.

Mina stayed with the Gumalowski family during her stay in Lake Station. She was an excellent scholar, athlete, and had a wonderful, outgoing personality. She will be missed and remembered by many.

Effort of Good Will

Three California grey whales captured the attention of the world in October of 1988. As winter approached the arctic, the whales were trapped in the freezing water en route California.

Local efforts were first made to keep breathing holes open for the three whales. For the mammals to survive though, a path to the sea would have to be cleared. The coalition of environmentalists, oil company officials, Eskimo whalers and the Alaskan National Guard all came to the rescue. Eventually, the whales were led to open sea by breathing holes in the ice. Two of the three whales survived the ordeal.

In an effort of good will, many people and nations came together to help.

Summit Reached

1988 was characterized by several ground breaking summits between Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and President Ronald Reagan.

In May, President Reagan visited Moscow, where he and Gorbachev signed nine agreements with two pertaining to arms control. Reagan also emphasized issues of human rights while in Moscow.

In December, Gorbachev visited the United States and addressed the United Nations. He promised to trim 500,000 men and 10,000 tanks from the Soviet armed forces. His visit ended quickly when an earthquake hit Soviet Armenia. This was the first time since World War II that the Soviet Union accepted disaster relief from the United States.

Forests Catch Fire

Since the beginning of summer in 1988 the worst fires in several centuries ravaged over a million acres of Yellowstone National Park.

The blame for the catastrophe has been put on several forces. The government was following a policy of a natural burn theory. The Park Service has allowed natural fires, as those caused by lightning to burn their course as long as humans or private property are not threatened.

Another factor in the continuance of the forest fire has been the effects of natural forces. Hot weather, high winds and summer drought have been causes.

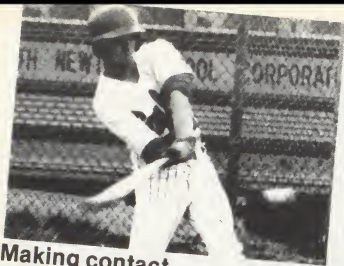

Half of Yellowstone's acres had been charred as had land in surrounding states.

Elvis Lives! Although the legendary King of Rock & Roll has been dead for over ten years, 1988 was the biggest year ever for Elvis sightings. He was seen doing a variety of things ranging from fishing in upstate New York to dining out in California.

Since the tragic ending to the space shuttle Challenger mission, the new shuttle Discovery's four day flight in September was the first successful mission.

Making contact

LIP SYNC

The fifth annual Lip Sync contest was held on Thursday, March 30. As in the past, the contest was a huge success. The acts represented a veritable gamut of late 80's trends: The Cover Girls, The Pet Shop Boys, U2, Tone Loc (doing the Wild Thing), Def Leppard (a big favorite among the girls in the audience), and Paula Abdul.

The winners - Dan Ellenberger, Tom Alicea, Rayez Perez, Steve Winandy, and Kim Page - performed the old Tokens hit "The Lion Sleeps Tonight", with Ms. Page, at her feline best, undertaking the role of the somnambulist carnivore.

Second place went to three young men doing the Supremes' "Stop in the Name of Love", and last, but not least, in third place was that hot band from Ireland, U2, doing "Pride (In the Name of Love)".

'Superbowl'

Conference champion River Forest and Lake Station are among five teams competing in the class 3 area competition of the Academic Super Bowl Tuesday April 18 at Wheeler High School.

The schools are among more than 250 high schools statewide taking part in the contest, which has 18 sites. Marcia Dow, the coordinator for Edison, said 68 teams are in the Class 3 field, five of whom are at Wheeler. RF and LS join Wheeler, Boone Grove and Hanover Central.

Seven teams from the class advance to state, with no guarantee of each site having a representative, though sites could potentially also have more than one qualifier reach the April 29 meet in Indianapolis.

Competition areas are English, social studies, math, science, fine arts, and all-around, a mixture of the others.

River Forest, which is directed by Kathy Hooks, is on a roll, having won conference and placed its best ever in the academic decathlon before that.

Lake Station has not selected its individual squads. Its team members are Tom Alicea, Lennie Drake, Mike Drake, Dan Ellenberger, Duke Howell, Erik Lind, Robert McCafferty, Reyes Perez, Selena Pustik, Victor Rodriguez, Becky Soto, Gay Strong, Ed Tharp, Kelly Thorne and Steve Winandy. Dow is assisted by Joan Boskovich. LS was fourth in the conference competition.

Introductions begin at 4:45 with the action commencing at 5.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK with a long-term condition has increased by 50% (Department of Health 1999). The prevalence of long-term conditions is expected to increase further as the population ages (Department of Health 1999). The impact of long-term conditions on the health and well-being of the population is considerable. Long-term conditions are the leading cause of death and disability in the UK (Department of Health 1999).

Long-term conditions are often managed through a combination of medical and non-medical interventions. Medical interventions include drugs, surgery and other medical procedures. Non-medical interventions include lifestyle changes, such as diet and exercise, and psychological interventions, such as cognitive behavioural therapy. The management of long-term conditions is often a complex task, requiring a combination of medical and non-medical interventions. the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased by 1 million (Office of National Statistics 1999).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people in the community. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for older people, which sets out a vision for the future of older people's services. The strategy is based on the principle of 'active ageing', which is the process of maintaining and enhancing the health, participation and security of older people. The strategy also sets out a number of key objectives, including: to improve the health and well-being of older people; to increase the participation of older people in society; and to ensure that older people are able to live in their own homes and communities for as long as possible.

The strategy also sets out a number of key actions that need to be taken to achieve these objectives. These include: to improve the health and well-being of older people by providing them with access to a range of health and social care services; to increase the participation of older people in society by providing them with opportunities to engage in social and community activities; and to ensure that older people are able to live in their own homes and communities for as long as possible by providing them with access to a range of housing and care services.

The strategy also sets out a number of key indicators that will be used to measure progress towards these objectives. These include: the number of older people who are in good health; the number of older people who are participating in social and community activities; and the number of older people who are able to live in their own homes and communities for as long as possible.

The strategy also sets out a number of key challenges that need to be addressed in order to achieve these objectives. These include: the need to improve the health and well-being of older people; the need to increase the participation of older people in society; and the need to ensure that older people are able to live in their own homes and communities for as long as possible.
